

This work is devoted to the development of a method for monitoring the stability of hydraulic structures (dams), which created a monitoring system, operator can make a conclusion about the reliability of controlled structures as well as data on the level of protection facilities and experimental results are presented.

Key words: optical fiber (OF), light detector, photoelectric signal processing unit (PSPU).